Course Description:

Art methods for secondary teachers is an in-service course designed for all teachers, currently teaching art in the public school system. This course will be centered around implementing the State Visual Art Core Standards in instructional design, framing objectives around essential questions, sharing, developing and enlarging a research-based repertoire of learning and teaching strategies, classroom management skills, and evaluation methods. The most effective approaches to "mastery" instruction and tutorial instruction will be modeled.

This class made possible by Utah State Office of Education and a grant from "No Child Left Behind"
